

NEW FLY CONTROL FORMULA AVAILABLE FROM EquiEssence at Nutwell Saddlery

As we are approaching that hot humid fly time of year (!) many of us are searching for a product that helps to ease our horse's irritation and discomfort from flies. With so many choices available it is often hard to know which one to choose.

Equine Culocid by Bimeda has recently been launched onto the market with very successful results. It is an innovative formulation which combines the use of Eucalyptus which acts as a natural fly repellent, and P- menthane which is used in animal flea preparations and for the treatment of head lice in children.

Equine Culocid is easy to use with no apparent odour, and has the advantage of being silicone based providing a shine to the coat. Once this has started to fade, re-application should be considered. It is therefore, not advisable to spray on the saddle area as it may cause your saddle to slip!

This product with its unique formulation has also been effective as a non insecticidal repellent control of sweet – itch
